St. Valentine's Day Massacre - HISTORY DETECTIVES stares down the barrel of a shotgun for clues that one of Al Capone's men fired it in a Chicago gang massacre that shocked the nation. The gun came to the contributor's family after it was handed down through two generations of prominent Chicago families. It's a Western Field single-barreled repeating action 12-gauge shotgun. The barrel and the stock were once shortened just the way the Capone gang liked its guns: easy to conceal and with greater destructive force. HISTORY DETECTIVES host Elyse Luray tests the gun's firepower, consults with ballistics experts and combs through physical evidence to see if she can place this gun at the scene of the crime. Booth Letter - A contributor gave HISTORY DETECTIVES a letter indicating that, 30 years before John Wilkes Booth assassinated Abraham Lincoln, Booth's father threatened to kill another sitting president, Andrew Jackson. Signed "Junius Brutus Booth," the letter to Jackson reads, "You damn'd old scoundrel ... I will cut your throat whilst you are sleeping." The writer insists that Jackson pardon two men who were sentenced to death. Why did the fate of these two men incite such fury? HISTORY DETECTIVES host Tukufu Zuberi travels to Nashville to consult historians at The Hermitage, the ancestral home of President Andrew Jackson, and to Washington, DC, to talk with a Booth biographer. Was the letter a hoax? Or did assassination run in the Booth blood? Cemetery Alarm - A Midland, Michigan, man who collects war munitions snapped up an item at an estate auction that looked like a Civil War-era weapon. On closer inspection, after consulting with other collectors, he decided he had a grave alarm: an explosive device meant to guard against grave robbers. Is this truly a grave alarm? HISTORY DETECTIVES host Wes Cowan's investigation winds through tales of body snatching and cadaver dissecting, unusual crimes and the most unlikely suspects.

Episode Title: Fort Raleigh, North Carolina
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 7/8/2009 7:00:00 PM
Service: PBS
Format: Documentary
Segment Length: 00:56:46

TIME TEAM AMERICA goes in search of our nation's mysterious roots at Roanoke Island. In 1586 the English sent the first group of hardy, hopeful colonists to make a go of it in the New World. But when English ships returned with supplies just three years later, they found the settlement empty and colonists gone. The colonists had left behind only one clue: the word Croatan carved in the gatepost of their fort. It took 20 years for the stunned English to establish another settlement in America. The fate of the Roanoke colonists remains one of the most chilling and maddening questions of American history. TIME TEAM AMERICA spends three days at Fort Raleigh in hot pursuit of archaeological evidence that will put the ghost of Roanoke to rest, and establish where the first colony in America was actually located.

Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 9/14/2009 9:00:00 PM
Service: PBS
Format: Documentary
Segment Length: 00:56:46

The most thoroughly handcrafted instruments in the world, Steinway pianos are as unique and full of personality as the world-class musicians who play them. However, their makers are a dying breed: skilled cabinet-makers, gifted tuners, thorough handcrafters. NOTE BY NOTE follows the creation of a Steinway concert grand, #L1037, from forest floor to concert hall, in a process spanning 12 months, 12,000 parts, 450 craftsmen and countless hours of fine-tuned labor. It explores the relationship between musician and instrument, chronicles the manufacturing process and illustrates what makes each Steinway unique in this age of mass production. Viewers are treated to interviews and impromptu performances with a number of world-class artists -- including Chinese phenom Lang Lang, Hélène Grimaud, Pierre-Laurent Aimard, contemporary singer Harry Connick Jr. and jazz greats Hank Jones, Marcus Roberts, Kenny Barron and Bill Charlap -- as they shop for and test out pianos in the basement of the Steinway showroom in New York City.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

Service: PBS
Format:
Segment Length: 00:00:00

In Part 1 of WIDE ANGLE's unprecedented, award-winning 12-year documentary project, Time for School, returns in 2009 with visits to seven classrooms in seven countries to offer a glimpse into the lives of seven extraordinary children who are struggling to get what nearly all American kids take for granted: a basic education. We started filming in 2002, watching as kids first entered school in Afghanistan, Benin, Brazil, India, Japan, Kenya and Romania, many despite great odds. Several years later, in 2006, we returned to film an update--and now, three years later, we travel to check in on our young teenagers who are making the precarious transition to middle school. These children's stories put a human face on the shocking fact that more than 75 million children are currently out of school; of these, two thirds are girls. One in four children in developing countries does not complete five years of basic education, and there are nearly one billion illiterate adults--one-sixth of the world's people. WIDE ANGLE plans to continue revisiting all the children, and their peers and families, through 2015, the year they should graduate--and, not coincidentally, the U.N.'s target date for achieving universal education, a Millennium Development goal endorsed by all 191 members of the United Nations. While each child in Time for School 3 has a unique story, taken together their lives tell an epic tale, shedding light on one of the most urgent and under-reported stories of our time.

Power Struggle: Will the green energy dream come to fruition? This week NOW explores obstacles to the promise of renewables--energy generated from natural resources such as sunlight, wind, and rain. NOW travels to California, which has the most ambitious clean energy plan in the nation. But the state's efforts face stiff opposition from property owners and conservationists who prefer renewable energy from "local sources," such as photovoltaic rooftop solar panels. Complicating the matter are claims that the transmission lines are not actually carrying renewable energy at all, but represent a thinly-disguised strategy to stick to old energy practices.

A special program this week--your questions, our answers, all on the hot topic of this hot month: health care, tonight, on Washington Week. The questions are coming fast and furious. One man asked, "Why are we inviting 50 million illegal invaders, who broke federal law, into our health care system?" Then, a woman asked, "Why do you continue to support a Nazi policy as Obama has expressly supported this policy, why are you supporting it?" Rep. Barney Frank (D-MA) said, "On what planet do you spend most of your time?" But who do you trust to give you the answers. The president is trying. Pres. Barack Obama said, "We're going to have to cut through a lot of nonsense out there, a lot of absurd claims that have been made about health insurance reform." But is it too little too late? One woman said, "Call your senator. Stop the government takeover of health care." We asked for your questions and hundreds of you responded. Tonight's answers come from the reporters who have been covering the story--Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal, and Jeanne Cummings of Politico.

Lake Wobegon -- where the women are strong, the men are good looking and all the children are above average -- has become America's collective hometown, visited weekly for the past 40 years on a fictional radio program that creates authentic nostalgia. With his Prairie Home Companion, Garrison Keillor became our national philosopher, filling the shoes of Will Rogers and Mark Twain, through his running commentary about the human condition and the social politic. With biting wit, a quirky perspective and an uncanny ability to hone in on the pulse of America, Keillor's themes and characters are somehow familiar to us all, resonating a shared experience. For more than a year, our camera has followed this great raconteur -- and his motley crew of actors, musicians and technical staff -- as he criss-crosses the country, broadcasting, recording and revealing himself.

Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Dan Balz of the Washington Post, and Alexis Simendinger of National Journal.

After Guantanamo: Closing Guantanamo Bay's prison will do little to close the debate on what we should do with alleged terrorists. This week NOW, as part of a collaboration with the nonprofit investigative unit ProPublica, explores the controversial tactic of "preventative detention," a government plan that may detain suspects indefinitely without trial or even formal charges. Implementing such a plan may have far-reaching consequences on not just our fight against terrorism, but the integrity of the U.S. Constitution and the cause of human rights. Even with President Obama in office and Guantanamo's days numbered, we're still asking: What price will we pay for peace on the ground and peace of mind?

Variety describes it as a film "mixing ferocity with tenderness, delicacy with tenacity" -- exactly like the unusual school it explores. In Hold Me Tight, Let Me Go, one of Britain's leading documentary filmmakers takes a verite look at Oxford's Mulberry Bush School for emotionally disturbed children. Mulberry's heroically forbearing staff greets extreme, sometimes violent behavior with only consolation and gentle restraint. Kim Longinotto's unblinking camera captures an arduous process and a nearly unhinged environment, but it also records the daily dramas of troubled kids trying to survive and the moments of hope they achieve with Mulberry's clear-eyed staff.
